

You're My Sister And I Love You by Geekygirl669

Category: Stranger Things (TV 2016)

Genre: Established Relationship, Established Relationship Billy Hargrove/Steve Harrington, M/M, mentions of mpreg

Language: English

Characters: Billy Hargrove, Maxine "Max" Mayfield, Steve Harrington

Relationships: Billy Hargrove/Steve Harrington

Status: Completed

Published: 2021-05-31

Updated: 2021-05-31

Packaged: 2022-03-31 20:36:41

Rating: Mature

Warnings: Creator Chose Not To Use Archive Warnings

Chapters: 1

Words: 910

Publisher: archiveofourown.org

Summary:

Billy and Steve take Max in to make sure that she had a good home environment until she left for college.

You're My Sister And I Love You

Taking Max in was one of the easiest decisions Billy and Steve had ever made. They were only twenty and still trying to figure shit out for themselves but as soon as they realised just how bad things were for Max neither of them even second guessed their decision to take her in. she needed a safe home and they could give it to her, so they were going to give it to her.

At first it was fucking hard. Max was already a teenager and neither of them had any clue how they were supposed to deal with one, they had been teenagers themselves only a year before. So it was really fucking hard, having to deal with the mood swings and her disobeying them, not that she had ever really listened to what they said any way.

And for a little while it put a strain on their relationship. There was less time for the two of them to be alone, there was no longer an empty house for them to do whatever the hell they wanted it. And at first it was really hard, it took some adjusting for both men but soon enough their new living arrangement became normal to all three of them.

And it stayed like that till Max went off to college at nineteen.

Looking back both Steve and Billy knew it was one of the best decision they had ever made, because in the end it had made them both grow a hell of a lot closer to each other and neither of them were sure where they would be without it.

Max helped both of them grow, was the reason Billy's drinking never got as bad as Steve always feared it would, she was the reason both of them realised that one day they might just be able to have kids of their own, something that before then had been something they never even considered for themselves.

Having to watch Max and Lucas together, was hard on Billy, he didn't want to think of his little sister like that. And he was incredibly strict with the rules. Something Max was always shouting at him for. But he never let up, ever.

Ever since everything at Star Court Billy had been incredibly protective of Max and that never let up, especially when they were living in the same house. It just seemed to make everything worse, not better.

Steve loved seeing that side of the man he loved, the protectiveness that Billy showed only to him and Max. The loving looks and kind of just how Billy was around both of them. It made Steve fall even more in love with him then he already was, and he didn't even think that was possible.

He got to see the caring father/older brother side to Billy and it really made him realise that he wanted to see more of that in the future. He wanted to see Billy like that with their kid. Not any time soon, he knew neither of them were ready for that but one day he wanted to see more of this side of Billy.

And Billy, well Billy had been seeing the big brother side of Steve for a long time now, the side of Steve that he saw whenever any of the kids were around, although it mostly came out around Dustin. But seeing Steve like that with his little sister, that had really cemented that fact that he wanted to spend the rest of his life with one Steve Hargrove, not like he had really been doubting it before then it just made it all the more clearer.

Billy felt like he was losing something huge when Max left for collage, he had gotten so used to having his sister around him all the time that when she finally left it felt like he was losing a part of himself in some way.

But Steve was there for him, making sure that Billy never thought he was crazy for finding this so hard. Made sure that Billy was able to get through this.

Steve was always there for Billy, just as Billy was always there for Steve.

And when they decided to have kids of their own years later they decided to adopt almost straight away. Give kids who had up bridging's like theirs into a good home, a loving home. They wanted to make sure that no kid ever had to go through what they did.

And they loved this two kids more than the world itself. It didn't matter to either of them that they weren't related to the two of them or that they hated been with then since they were baby's. None of that mattered because they loved their kids.

And in the long run they both had Max to thank for that. If they hated taken her in they never would have considered kids, but she had and now they had the most important people in their lives.

And they made sure Max knew how thankful they were. She was both of their kid's god mothers as well as their aunts. She was amazing with them, thanking Steve and Billy for everything they did by babysitting the kids whenever she was needed.

Steve and Billy's life had changed for ever when they took Max in, it had changed for the better and neither of them ever wanted to look back.

Author's Note:

I hope you liked this story and I would love to know what you thought in the comments.

I have read through and corrected all the mistakes I could find but if I missed any that you spotted while reading please let me know in the comments so I can correct them.

I am really bad at tagging works so if you think I need to add anything to the tags please let me know in the comments so I can add them.

I take prompts and story suggestions on Tumblr under the same username or in the comments.